The south side of the 100 block of E. Cross St. is one of the most interesting blocks in the southern section of Federal Hill, containing as it does almost every variety of house type built in the area between the 1840's and the 1880's. At 139-143 E. Cross St., at the eastern end of the block, there is a row of late Victorian style, two story, two bay wide brick houses with shed roofs and bracketed cornices. The houses, which sit on high basements, with basement kitchens, were built just before 1880. To the west, at 137 E. Cross St. there is a similar two story, two bay wide brick house with shed roof, but with no extant roof cornice, built about the same time. 135 and 133 E. Cross St. have been torn down, but at 131 E. Cross there is a two and a half story, two bay wide, late Federal style brick house located next to a pair of similar two and a half story frame houses at 127-129 E. Cross St. The survival of a frame house in this section of the city is quite unusual. All three houses seem to have been built in the 1840's or 1850's. Continuing west, one encounters a pair of two story plus attic, two bay wide brick houses at 123-125 E. Cross St., built about 1850; a late Victorian style, two story, three bay wide brick house with shed roof and bracketed cornice at 121 E. Cross St., an 1880's remodeling of an original 1840's house; and, at 117-119 E. Cross St., a pair of originally two story, two bay wide gable-roofed houses built in the mid 1840's, one of which (117) has since been enlarged and is now three stories in height with a shed roof and bracketed cornice. At 113-115 E. Cross St. there is another pair of two story plus attic brick houses, built in the mid 1840's by John S. Gittings, and at 111 E. Cross St. there is a two story, two bay wide gable-roofed house built by Gittings in the early 1850's. Further west, at 109 E. Cross St. there is yet another two story plus attic house, followed by a pair of two and a half story, two bay wide, late Federal style brick houses at 105-107 E. Cross St., and then another two story plus attic house at 103 E. Cross St. The four latterly described houses were all built in the early 1840's by William Addison, a local house carpenter. At 124-126 Weber St., there is a pair of two story, two bay wide brick houses with shed roofs and bracketed cornices, built in 1872 by Charles and Augustus Weber, leaders of the German community in Baltimore at this time. The houses are the only survivors of an original row of such houses built along the north side of Weber St. at this time.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This two story, three bay brick house with shed roof and bracketed cornice represents an enlargement of the original two story, gable roofed house that was probably built on this site in the 1840's contemporaneously with the adjoining house, 119 Cross St.

The house is two stories in height, about 15 1/2' wide, and occupies a lot 103' deep. There is a two story high, two bay deep rear addition, followed by a one story high later addition that runs almost to the end of the lot. The house is constructed in running bond. The shed roof is capped by a wooden cornice consisting of a deeply projecting crown molding set above panels decorated with scroll-sawed motifs and bordered by a row of quarter-round carvings. Four grooved brackets support the cornice and connect it to a lower molding strip also decorated with quarter-round carvings. The brick frieze area thus formed is punctuated with three scroll-sawed ventilating panels. There is a double hooded chimney located along the east side of the front section of the house and there is a rear end chimney located at the south end of the two story addition.

All of the door and window openings have segmentally arched brick lintels and wood sills. All of the window openings are filled with 1/1 double hung sash, the upper pane of glass cut to fit the curve of the segmentally arched lintel. A late Victorian glass and panel door is set beneath a single light transom, the glass cut to fit the curve of the arch. The house sits on a fairly low basement, the entrance being reached by two stone steps. There are two rectangular basement window openings located beneath the first floor windows. An arched alleyway runs between this house and 119 Cross St.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

See under 117-119 E. Cross St.

This house was probably originally built as a two story, gable-roofed house like its neighbor at 119 E. Cross St. The first owner-occupant of the house was a John L. Woods, a brickmaker, who lived here in the late 1840's.¹
